GOOD NEWS FOR THE MINERS OF THE CROWS' NEST PASS

With the granting of the subvention effective from May 31st, 1930, by the federal government, of one-eighth of a cent per ton-mile from this field to the Winnipeg district, some of the mines of this district have been able to break into the Winnipeg market, which has been controlled in the past almost exclusively by the American field.

The first large consumer of coal in Winnipeg to buy 100% Canadian coal was the T. Eaton Company; this firm, realising conditions and the unemployment in Western Canada were the first to give their assistance wholeheartedly. They are to be commended upon their action, and we feel that the size and importance of this firm in Canada will attract other large consumers of bituminous coal to the Crows' Nest Pass coalfield.

BELLEVUE SHOW AND EXHIBITION A SUCCESS

Bellevue held its 13th annual flower show and exhibition of vegetables, poultry, etc., under ideal conditions on Labor Day. This year proved to be the best in the history of the club, and the hundreds who attended this ever growing annual event, were high in their praise of the beautiful array of flowers, produce and handicraft on display.

A. E. Palmer and J. H. Downs, of the experimental farm, Lethbridge, judged the vegetable and poultry sections, respectively; W. R. Reader, Calgary, the flowers; A. J. Kelly, Blaimore, school arts, and Mrs. L. L. Morgan and Mrs. G. Steeves, Blaimore, the ladies' section.

The sports staged during the afternoon were eagerly contested. In the single events, the road races, C. Conner won the senior five-mile over A. Fournier in 20:36 4-5, while Jack Beal won the junior 2 1/2-mile event in 15:03 against a field of five, Luther Goodwin was second and Alfred White third.

After the exhibition and sports were finished, the arena was made ready for the big carnival where dancing to music by Bill Fraser's orchestra was indulged in, and blankets, dolls, dogs, etc., were eagerly sought by the many patrons. The draw for the major prizes was held at the close on Tuesday, Paula Leskoski, Edmonton, winning the chesterfield; Angelina Dancoine, Blaimore, the Orthophonic; and Dot Johnston, Coleman, and Fern Millett, Blaimore, the gent's and lady's gold watches respectively.

A complete list of show prize winners will appear in The Enterprise at an early date.

SLOAN ELECTED

HEAD OF MINERS

James Sloan, of Lethbridge, acting president of the M'n Workers Union of Canada, since the opposition to Frank Wheatley some months ago, has been elected to the presidency of the members in the mining area throughout the province.

The result of the vote was announced on Friday at a meeting of the board held in the city.

Following are the other officials elected by the ballot of the members of the union: Ludwig Maurice, of Bellevue, vice-president; Major Hyslop, secretary, and A. Fraser, of Coleman, for District No. 1; H. R. Barkhouse, of Coalhurst, for District No. 2; Robt. Hall, of Canmore, for District No. 3; and Arthur Prusett, of Nordegg, for District No. 4. Members of the board: A. Baceda, of Lethbridge, W. M. Chapman, of Coleman, and J. Price, of Bellevue, were named tellers for the organization.

COLE'S THEATRE RECEIVES THE AWARD OF HONOR

One year ago Cole's Theatre Bellevue opened with talking pictures. At this time only four other theatres in the province of Alberta were equipped for this form of entertainment, including the Capitol Theatres, of Calgary and Edmonton. Following the policy of this theatre to always give its patrons the best possible in entertainment, improvements for perfect sound are continually studied and adopted.

The management feel proud to announce that after sound-tests have been made, the theatre has been awarded the Plaque of Honor, presented by the Chicago Herald-World for the high quality of its sound reproduction.

It is interesting to note that this little theatre is the first in western Canada to receive this award of Merit.

The Plaque will be presented to this theatre at an early date, after which it will be put on display.

POLICE CAPTURE ALLEGED KILLER AT CROWS' NEST

FERNIE, B.C., Sept. 3.—George Vann, wanted for a triple murder, alleged to have been committed at Kalispell, Mont., was taken into custody at Crows Nest at an early hour Tuesday morning by Constable R. S. Nelson, British Columbia Provincial Police. The hunt for Vann in this district was organized by Sergeant Duncan in charge of British Columbia Provincial Police here, following report from the sheriff of Kalispell that the fugitive was believed to be headed this way, travelling through the Flathead Pass. The first trace of Vann was when he visited the Flathead Forest Service cabin and after exchanging clothing and trading a rifle he carried for one owned by the fire warden, he proceeded towards Corbin.

At midnight, Monday, word came from Crows' Nest that a man generally answering the fugitive's description had purchased an entire new outfit of clothing there. Constable Nelson took up the chase and found Vann in a railway roundhouse. He was placed under arrest and was brought to the city about noon Tuesday, and lodged in the city jail pending arrival of the Montana authorities.

According to police, Vann stated that he was perfectly willing to return to Montana and will not fight extradition.

INSTITUTE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The closing of the holiday season will see a large increase in the use of the library and the library is in better position to serve the reading public than ever before. A continual stream of new books is steadily coming in and now there are two thousand and one hundred and fifty available for use. We are glad to acknowledge seven new volumes from Mrs. Greig also a box of books from Mr. Westgate, of Eyremore. This gift includes Hawkin's "Electrical Guide" and "Encyclopedia of Electricity." The library is open every Tuesday and Saturday from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Enterprise prints everything but money and linoleum. You don't have to send your printing out of town—unless you want to.

The hunting season is fast approaching and the Blaimore Hardware window is making a pleasing appeal to the sportsmen in a reminder of opening day.

High River school board has raised the high school fees this year to non-resident pupils. Grades IX, X, and XI, are now $50, while Grade XII will be $60 per month.

Getting Back To Nature

Summer vacation days are practically over and boys and girls, youths and maidens are getting back to their school books and studies while father returns to his office or store and mother to her varied household activities. If these vacation days have been sane and sensibly spent the result is that those who have enjoyed them go back to their studies or work refreshed in mind and body, physically strengthened, more alert mentally, and in every way better fitted for the duties that lie ahead, with stored up energy from the life-giving rays of the sun to carry them through the shorter winter days.

A well spent vacation, however, means more than this, especially for the young. There is no period, no one month or day throughout life when our education is complete, when we are not learning something, absorbing some new and possibly lasting impressions, storing up additional information, gaining in knowledge. Because for a few weeks or months we abandon the school room and text books for a camp in the woods, or a motor trip, or a sojourn in the mountains or by the sea, does not imply that during such time our education comes to a full stop. Quite the reverse is true.

Indeed, living for a few weeks in a summer cottage by one of our lovely western prairie lakes, boating, bathing, fishing, rambling through the woods by day, watching the glorious sunsets and beautiful dawns, lazily contemplating the star-bespinked sky at night, living the simple life, both in food and dress, and inclined seriously to question whether in this intense, highly organized, mechanical age, we are not beginning to lose some of the best things in life, and to substitute the artificial for the natural.

For example, are not those responsible for our educational system, the training of our boys and girls for their life work, not missing something very vital and important in their programme of studies? Nowadays we take a boy or girl at the age of six or seven and introduce him and her to the great realm of books. Thus early in life we open up a new world to them, and from that time onward the tendency is for them to turn only to books, or to their teachers using text books, as the source of all information. Boys and girls may thus become great students of books, but they lose the greater pleasures, the romance, the fine inspiration which comes from the study and observation of nature itself and the wonderful works of nature.

The writer confesses that he always liked the ideas and ideals and programme back of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides movements, the training of youth in the art of close observation, of learning by doing. We like the idea of our Canadian boys and girls obtaining a knowledge of our flowers and trees, our birds and beetles and flies, yes, even our weeds, from nature itself rather than from books; we like them to recognize the evening star, and the dipper, and the north star in the great space of the sky overhead rather than in a diagram in a text book; we prefer they should know how to build a trustworthy footbridge over a stream they may have to cross rather than be forced to go miles out to find a concrete or steel structure; we like to see them capable of starting a camp fire in a few minutes, cooking their own food, setting up a tent, making a bed with boughs, leaves and a blanket or two; we admire a boy using an axe expertly.

Book knowledge should come; it must come; it is absolutely essential. But are we not making the mistake of relying almost wholly on books in our task of education and neglecting the great out-doors and the wonderful works which nature alone presents to us? Is not the early education of our Canadian boys and girls too academic in character, and not quite practical enough?

Nature study in all its many branches is much more interesting to the average boy and girl in their earlier years than the study of the lessons they learn from nature will remain with them, when much book learning is forgotten. Furthermore, the traits and characteristics developed through close contact with, and study of nature's own methods, are traits and characteristics which create habits of observation and initiative that will be found invaluable in life, irrespective of the profession or business in which one may ultimately engage, and they are real assets which are not so easily found within the covers of books.

Canada is a land of beauty and variety. Nature has been bountiful in her gifts to the Canadian people. It behoves us, therefore, to give our boys and girls every opportunity to observe, study and appreciate these beauties, to live and learn among and from them. Vacation days are happy days, but they are also, in the writer's humble opinion, among the most valuable of all our days of learning. There should be a way found to fit them more closely into our educational system.

Egg Laying Record

The Oyster Holds Undisputed Claim To This Honor

The world's egg-laying record, 25,000 in one second, 115,000,000 in 70 minutes, 680,000,000 in a year—all by a female oyster—is claimed by the oyster.

The feat was reported to a gathering of biologists, of international repute, civic, state and federal health authorities and shellfish commissioners from several states at the convention of the National Association of Shellfish Commissioners and the Oyster Growers and Dealers Association of North America, Inc.

Menace To Motoring Public

Outborn Car Is Becoming Peril On Modern Highway

The "One Horse Shay," made famous by Oliver Wendell Holmes, ran its course and then suddenly disappeared into atomic dust. Old cars are not as successfully disposed of, and unless some used-car dealer wins the gratitude of the motoring public by committing them to the junk pile they continue to obstruct traffic on the highway until they collapse in a heap of scrap at the roadside.

There is nothing romantic, uncanny or even interesting about the final chapter of the outborn car. Too often there is tragedy in the concluding lives.

The old, out-of-date, decrepit gas wagon is more than a problem—it's a peril.

It now costs $25 in Old London to impede traffic by trying to operate an old car that should be on the junk heap. Public opinion will eventually ban such vehicles from our busiest highways, for they are certainly a menace not only to the owner but to the motoring public as well.

"Did your husband follow my directions? Did he take the medicine I left for him religiously?" "I'm afraid he didn't, doctor. In fact, he swore every time I gave him a dose."

New Zealand is said to be the healthiest country in the world. The average expectation of life in that country for men is about 63 years and for women 65 years.

No Reciprocity

British War Veterans Will Have To Pay $10 Visa Fee

Eighteen British war veterans, coming to the United States for a convention next month, will be required to pay the usual $10 visa fee each, despite Great Britain's courtesy a few years ago in admitting several hundred American Legionnaires without charge.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, was informed in a note made public recently that the State Department regretted its inability to comply with his request for a blanket visa, but that the law gave it no alternative. A formal reciprocal agreement would be necessary, the State Department informed Sir Ronald.

Bright Eyes, Rosy Cheeks

The Birthright Of Every Girl

Dull eyes mean misery and weakness—a sure sign of a bloodless condition. Anemic girls and women have dull, heavy eyes with dark lines underneath. The bright eyed girl or woman is always happy and well.

There is one way to make the eyes bright—to bring the glow of health to pale cheeks—that is to invigorate the body with new blood—Pink Pills for Pale People. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this and they do it well. Concerning them Mrs. Robert Devlin Brougham, Ont., says: "My daughter became so ill and nervous we had to take her out of school. She was pale and thin; her eyes were dull and the least exertion upset her. I began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in less than six months you would not know her. She gained in weight and strength and is now the picture of health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Makes Air Record

Pilot In Northern Alberta Flew 1,500 Miles In One Day, Making Five Stops

The latest of many air records in Northern Alberta was recorded the other day when Captain W. N. Sherlock, of Commercial Airways, flew 1,500 miles one day, making five stops en route for the delivery of letters and packages. The trip was from Port McMurray to Aklavik, with stops at Fort Resolution, Fort Simpson, Fort Norman, Port McPherson and Arctic Red River. Captain Sherlock hails from Cumberland, England, and is a former member of the R.A.F.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

Chain Letters

New Flood Of Chain Letters Cause Trouble To Postal Authorities

London postal authorities are again fighting a new flood of chain letters. The latest of them begins with the names of Charles Lindbergh, Colonel Dawes, Bernard Shaw, John Barrymore, Dorothy Dix and Ramsay MacDonald. By the letter, one is given to understand that all these celebrated people have written nine letters to nine other people. A subtle threat of sudden death to anyone who fails to carry on the chain is hidden in the wording.

A Wonderful Man

Sir Wilfred Grenfell "Father" Of Labrador Is Well Named

The wonderful man, Sir Wilfred Thomsen Grenfell, K.C.M.G., "Father" of Labrador, will shortly be visiting Lethbridge, when a Mansion House meeting will be held in his honor.

A doctor by profession, he has a passionate love for the sea, and has done much for the benefit of North Sea fishermen.

In 1892 he went to Labrador, where he built five hospitals, seven nursing stations, two orphanages, two large schools, several co-operative stores, in addition to setting on foot much industrial work. In short, he has completely revolutionized Labrador.

Although 65, he still takes an annual cruise in one of his hospital steamers along the North West Newfoundland and Labrador coasts. His work in Labrador is carried on under four committees, one British, one Canadian, one Newfoundland, and one American.

He is an Oxford man, and played for the university in the Rugby football team. In 1929 he became Lord Rector of St. Andrews University.

Replaced the Breakage

Elderly Woman Is Made Happy By Gift Of Prince

Miss Raymond, an elderly and humble resident of the south of London, has been made happy by a kindly act of the Prince of Wales.

She lives in a hotel in the neighborhood of the cricket ground where the Prince went to attend the England-Australia match.

During an interval in the play the Prince and a party of friends visited the hotel, and one of the old lady's vases accidentally was overturned and broken.

The next day the Prince sent a colored statuette of himself in hunting costume, accompanied by a letter regretting the breakage, and hoping that she would accept the substitute instead.

British Rule In India

What England Has Done and Can Do For People Of That Country

"Downeater" writes as follows in the Canadian Churchman: "The achievements of England in India during the last century, I think I may safely say, constitute one of the brightest pages in the history of our race and Empire. Like all human records, it is not of course without its blot. But I think it has on the whole fully justified Macaulay's glowing words in his celebrated essay on the character and work of Lord Clive. 'If in India the yoke of foreign masters, elsewhere the harvest of all yokes, has been found lighter than that of any native dynasty, if that gang of public robbers that once spread terror through the whole plain of Bengal has been succeeded by a body of functionaries not more highly distinguished by ability and diligence than by integrity, disinterestedness and public spirit, if we see men like Munro, Elphinstone and Metcalfe, after leading victorious armies and deposing kings, return proud of their honorable poverty, the praise is in no small measure due to Clive.' But to me, and I believe to the great majority of Britons throughout the Empire, England's noblest achievements in this connection will be the gradual fitting of the inhabitants of the Indian peninsula for self-government and should the event demand it, ultimate independence.

PARLIAMENT TO OPEN ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8

Ottawa, Ont.—Parliament will open on Monday, September 8. Official announcement of the date of the opening was made by Sir George Parley, acting prime minister and war-time Canadian high commissioner in London, England.

The hour set for the opening, Sir George Parley stated, is 12 o'clock noon, although the more formal procedure will not take place until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. This arrangement will permit the House of Commons to get right down to business on the first day of the special session to deal with unemployment relief, and doubtless take some action on the tariff. This procedure, in view of the nature of the coming session, will be somewhat different from the usual opening.

Members of parliament will assemble in the House of Commons at the noon hour, with Arthur Beauchamp, clerk of the House, presiding. After assembling, the members will proceed to the senate chamber, where the deputy governor-general will be present, and upon the direction of His Excellency will return to the Commons to elect a Speaker. Adjournment will then be made until 3 o'clock, when, with the pomp and ceremony of tradition attendant upon the opening of parliament, Viscount Willingdon will arrive from Rideau Hall and proceed to the Upper Chamber. His Excellency the Governor-General will read the Speech from the Throne.

The address in reply to the Speech from the Throne will then be moved by the mover and seconder. Former Premier Mackenzie King will then speak, followed by Premier R. B. Bennett in his initial address to the floor of the House as Prime Minister. In all probability, Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. leader, will continue the discussion and the debate will have the right-of-way until its termination.

Usually, the first session of a new parliament opens on a Wednesday and little practical business is performed that week. The opening is marked with a series of social functions at the beginning of each day, but this opening is keeping with the businesslike atmosphere of the session, there will be no state dinner nor drawing-room reception. All members-elect are expected to be in Ottawa early Monday morning. Notices are being sent out by the clerk of the House asking their attendance in the Parliament Buildings after 9:30 o'clock on Monday morning, so that they may be sworn in. In view of the problems to be discussed, a full attendance of members of every group in the House is anticipated.

Wins Marathon Swim

Marvin Nelson, Of Iowa, America's $10,000 Prize In Big Event

Toronto, Ont.—Marvin Nelson, a bronzed young Hercules, who had come up from Port Dodge, Iowa, won $10,000 and the professional swimming championship of the world. He swam the 15-mile course of the Canadian National Exhibition in seven hours, 43 minutes, 36 1-5 seconds, a new world's record, and climbed up on the finishing float still fresh and strong. Last year he was barred from the prize money when he collapsed, unconscious, with the end only 50 yards away.

In a race which saw the collapse of George Young, then swimming fourth; Frank Pritchard, who was in the lead; Mendel Budnitz, Eli Radakovich, and many other famous swimmers, Nelson persevered to overhaul one after another of the leaders, finally passing leader Spender at the beginning of the last lap. In the last four miles he overcame Spender's lead of 250 yards to finish 500 yards ahead of him.

Nelson's gesture of victory when he lifted both hands out of the water brought immediate response from the thousands massed along the lake-front. He was a smiling man of few words when welcomed by the mayor of Toronto and a battery of photographers. "All right, mate, fine—I'm satisfied," summed up his feelings. He strolled about the float and the photographers harge without embarrassment or weariness, and was the first to greet leader Spender when the Port Colborne youth finished seven minutes after himself.

Honey production in Canada total more than 15,000 tons, valued at more than $3,400,000.

Premier Brownlee Is Optimistic Over Future Of Dominion

Simcoe, Ont.—Speaking before the Simcoe Rotary Club, Hon. John E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, and distinguished son of Norfolk, commented on the subject of immigration and unemployment in the province of Alberta.

Referring to the continued influx of immigrants to the West, he said: "They have been coming into the Peace River country at a great rate in the last couple of years. You cannot continue to pour people into any country like that without experiencing a setback. The country again cannot assimilate them and it becomes a serious problem when an era of low prices and falling markets sets in. Many easterners have been unable to understand why Alberta wanted the bans up against immigration. The present situation affords the answer."

At the same time Premier Brownlee took occasion to refute newspaper reports of Red activities in Alberta. "You will find more Reds in the city of Toronto or the city of Hamilton in one day," he declared, "than you would find in our province in a year." He defended the policy of the western Wheat Pool in connection with marketing the wheat crop, asserting that the pool had always been exporting its just share. "It is just one of those cycles," he believed, "when there is an over production in the basic commodities of life and the country suffers a temporary depression."

Premier Brownlee declared himself to be an optimist as to the future. "It may be one month, two months, a year, or maybe more before conditions right themselves, but of the future of this country we can have no doubt."

Proposed Changes In Homesteading Policies

Will Be Presented To Government By Saskatchewan Commission

Saskatoon, Sask.—Findings of the Royal Saskatchewan Commission on Immigration and Settlement which will be presented to the government will, if acted upon, involve radical changes in the homesteading policies of the past. Dr. W. Swanson, chairman of the commission, announced.

One of the most interesting and important results of the commission, he stated, dealt with vacant lands. Since the return of the natural resources to the provinces it became imperative to devise a program based upon sound policy for the development of these lands and this the commission had attempted to do. Dr. Swanson would not indicate the nature of the suggestions.

Researches were made by the commission into the present condition of agriculture and its future possibilities with a view to relating these to immigration and settlement.

Many other problems, rural and urban, had been studied so that the entire report comprises a comprehensive and detailed analysis of the basic problems affecting immigration, colonization and employment.

A Great Discovery

British Delegate To Medical Convention Stresses Value Of Insulin

Winnipeg, Man.—Insulin, discovery of a Canadian research expert, is one of the greatest advances in medical science, according to Sir William Taylor, K.B.E., C.B., of Dublin, Ireland, who is here attending the British Medical Association convention. Diabetes mellitus, which had always proved fatal, particularly in early life, could now be controlled. Insulin had altered the whole treatment of the disease. "With the aid of insulin, I have been able to perform operations which I could not have dreamed of without it," declared Sir William.

Referring to birth control, Sir William expressed himself in favor of it insofar as it tended to raise health standards. "It is a good deal better to exercise control than to allow a super-abundance of children to be brought into the world who cannot be properly educated, or properly fed," he commented.

Air Mail From Iceland

First Delivery Made To Halifax By German Pilot

Halifax, N.S.—The first air mail from Iceland and Greenland to Canada arrived here August 26, in the custody of Captain Wolfgang Von Gronau and his companions aboard the flying boat D-1422, which flew to Halifax from Greenland, N.S., after a flight from Germany to Iceland, Greenland and Labrador. Captain Gronau delivered the mail to D. A. King, postmaster here.

INITIAL PAYMENT OF POOL IS SET AT SIXTY CENTS

Winnipeg, Man.—Days of anxious waiting are over and now the 154,000 western farmers, members of the prairie wheat pools, know what the initial payment is to be on the 1930 crop.

It will be the lowest in the seven-year history of the pools: 60 cents on wheat; oats, No. 2 C.W., 30 cents; barley, No. 3 C.W., 35 cents; rye, No. 2 C.W., 35 cents, and flax, No. 1 N.W., $1.25. The 60 cent payment on wheat will be made on the basis of No. 1 Northern Grade at Winnipeg.

Along with the official announcement from A. J. McPhail, chairman of the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers Limited, the central selling agency of the pools, and from Premier J. G. Bracken, of Manitoba, came a plea to the creditors of the western agriculturists to be lenient. The same plea was made in Regina, at a conference of wheat growers, business men, and members of the Saskatchewan Government, under the leadership of Premier J. T. M. Anderson.

Both Mr. McPhail and Mr. Bracken drew attention to the serious situation facing the prairie farmers, who, for the second year in succession, in face of depressed world grain values, are now harvesting a crop below the average in yield.

"The government of Manitoba," said Premier Bracken, "believes that in the present emergency industrial and financial interests should refrain from unduly pressing collection from farmer debtors. It is in the interests of all Canada that our farmers should not be embarrassed by too energetic attempts by consulting creditors to collect larger payments than farmers are able to pay." Sale of the prairie crops "under pressure" would depress values, with serious consequences to the agricultural and business interests of the Dominion, he said.

Mr. McPhail declared: "As the welfare of our prairie provinces is almost entirely dependent on the solvency of our agricultural industry, we hope and feel confident that all interests concerned in the welfare of western Canada will co-operate in minimizing the difficulties our farmers are facing at the present time."

The chairman of the central selling agency stated that a further payment which would involve an increase in the initial payment "will be made at an early date as market and financial conditions will permit."

Since the formation of the wheat pools at the west, with the exception of one year, the initial payment has always been $1 a bushel. In 1928, values were depressed, the initial payment was 85 cents a bushel.

Government Steamer Nearing Winter Harbor

"Beothic" Battling Ice and Fog In Arctic Sea

Ottawa, Ont.—After a continuous battle with ice and fog, the Canadian Government Arctic patrol steamer "Beothic" is approaching winter harbor on Melville Island, it was announced by officials of the North West Territories branch of the Department of the Interior.

The ship is carrying the 1930 Arctic expedition which will spend some time among the Canadian Archipelago. Its immediate purpose is to re-provision the cache on Melville Island established there in 1908 by Capt. J. E. Bernier, of the C.G.S. Arctic and which has played a most important part in the exploration and the policing of Canada's northern empire.

Preserving Wild Life

Canada Ahead Of States Especially In Regard To Buffalo

Toronto, Ont.—That Canada has done much further than the United States in some aspects of wild life preservation, particularly the conservation of buffalo, was the statement made by Colonel Paul G. Redington, chief of the U.S. Bureau of Biological Survey, who addressed the 24th annual convention at the Royal York Hotel, of the International Association of Game Fish and Conservation Commissioners.

Burns' Descendant Sings Poet's Ballads

Enid Gray, a brilliant young soprano of Toronto, who will be at the Highland Gathering at Banff, and will sing in the ballad opera "The Ayrshire Ploughman", incorporating songs of Robert Burns, has the additional distinction of belonging to the Burns family, being a great-great-granddaughter of James Burns, first cousin to Robert Burns. James Burns went to Ireland to battle on the estate of Sir Robert Greville. Here he married Mary Young, and they had nine daughters, of whom Jane Burns was one. Jane came to Canada, where she married, and her youngest daughter Mary was the grandmother of Enid Gray. It is interesting to note the strong physical resemblance as evidenced by comparison of photographs of Miss Gray and Robert Burns.

Climbers Conquer Mount Robson

Members Of Mount Everest Expedition Reach Summit

Mount Robson, B.C.—Mount Robson, after many attempts has been climbed for the first time this season. A party, composed of N. E. Odell and C. G. Crawford, of London, England, both members of the Mount Everest expedition, and T. R. Moore, of Haddonfield, N.Y., successfully gained the summit. It was in a lone attempt to climb Mount Robson, 12,972 feet high, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, that Newman D. Waff, of Orange, N.J., lost his life recently.

Still Holding By-Elections

No Immediate Possibility Of Law Being Amended

Ottawa, Ont.—Political observers here see no immediate possibility of amending the elections law to obviate the necessity of cabinet ministers going before their electors at by-elections when they assume office.

Two or three years ago a resolution was read in the House of Commons recommending that by-elections for cabinet ministers be dispensed with. The government of the day promised to give consideration to it and no vote was taken. Ontario is one province that has eliminated by-elections for its ministers.

TARIFF ACTION TO PROTECT THE FRUIT GROWERS

Ottawa, Ont.—The dumping of fruits and vegetables from the United States into the markets of Canada, which has been the cause of strenuous protest for some time past, has resulted in definite action by the government. Hon. E. B. Ryckman, Minister of National Revenue, has announced the fixing of values for fruit purposes on ten fruits and vegetables which are among the common food commodities on the Canadian table. The fixing of value for fruit purposes means that such fruits and vegetables entering Canada must pay a duty on the basis of the valuation determined by the minister.

Provisions of the Customs Act permit the government to fix valuation on commodities entering Canada. They consider such action desirable. In the past, on the floor of the House of Commons, as well as outside parliament, the claim has been made by representatives of the Canadian fruit and vegetable growers that the "cream of the Canadian market" went to United States producers because they were in a position to bring forward their product earlier than it would be produced in Canada. There was also the claim that when the United States market was satisfied, fruit, which would otherwise have glutted that market, was dumped into Canada at a much lower price than prevailed here in the United States or Canada. This, it was claimed, constituted unfair competition which the Canadian producer could not be expected to meet.

Imports of fruits and vegetables from United States have grown to considerable proportions of late years. The Canadian market has proven attractive to the producers in United States who could get their product into Canada before the home-grown fruits and vegetables were available.

The effect of the action will be to ensure that the United States fruits and vegetables covered pay duty on what is considered a fair valuation.

Comparison of the values fixed on fruits and vegetables with those prevailing heretofore is practically impossible because of variations which have existed in different parts of Canada. Apples, for instance, might enter Canada at a lower value for duty purposes in the maritime provinces than in the prairie provinces. That depends on the invoiced value of shipment.

The agitation for application of the dumping duties on fruits and vegetables naturally emanated from those sections of Canada where these commodities are largely produced.

The fruits and vegetables upon which a valuation has been fixed together with their values for duty purposes when entering Canada from United States are as follows:

Apples, six cents per pound; cabbage, five cents per pound; cantaloupes, ten cents per pound; celery, ten cents per pound; onions, four cents per pound; peaches, twelve cents per pound; pears, nine cents per pound; plums and prunes, eight cents per pound; tomatoes, ten cents per pound.

ROAD TO LONG LIFE IS SHOWN BY MEDICAL MEN

Winnipeg, Man.—"Long life and good health!" Out of the bowl of the world's medical knowledge, a toast was drunk by delegates to the sixth annual meeting of the British Medical Association. Two of Britain's most noted physicians took the platform before hundreds of their fellow doctors; one to point the road to a long life, and the other to say that good health comes unbidden.

Dr. Robert Hutchison, F.R.C.P., London's most noted iconoclast when health fads are the dieties, shattered images right lustily. Jovially, but firmly, the British expert backed back to the good old days of mules when, he said, children were probably healthier and happier than the oft-weighted, pampered, dieted, psycho-analyzed infants of today. He laughed at the cure-all vitamins, and held up as ideal the easy-going individual who merely meanders to health.

Inability of the state to permit birth control in England was deplored by Sir James Purves-Stewart, K.C.M.B., F.R.C.P., in outlining the ways to a lengthy life. He considered hereditarily by far the most important factor in producing longevity, but regretted that lack of birth control permitted reproduction of far from perfect specimens of the human species, closing one doorway to longer living. The other two routes, he thought, were by the aid of the public hospital system and the family doctor.

Highlight of the day-time sessions was the expression of opinion on the use of radium on treatment of cancer. Dr. Malcolm Donaldson, of London, forced the cure and use of surgical extirpation treatment for cancer, due to radium development. Concurring, Prof. W. W. Chipman, Montreal, believed that radium has already proved superior to surgical treatment of cancer. But London's Dr. Sidney Forsdyke, disagreed. He expressed confidence in the future of radium, but considered the rare element "a long way from being the only cure" for malignant tumors.

Three ways of attaining to long life are open to the individual. According to Sir James Purves-Stewart, first, he suggested, by means of the family doctor, and the way is barred at present by opposition to birth control. The other two means are the public hospital system, staffed by expert physicians and surgeons, and the family doctor, named as the malnourish of the people's health.

Least religious beliefs be offended, Sir James rejected his discussion on the birth control aspect of his talk on "Long Life as a Business Proposition." But he stated: "It is an appalling thought that these good people, while they recognize the desirability of breeding healthy cattle, see no harm in permitting the indiscriminate breeding of insane and diseased human beings."

By far the most important factor in producing long life, believed the speaker, is heredity—"Long life runs in families." He mentioned, however, that nearly all the causes of shortening life are preventable, with the exception of hereditary diseases and cancers. In the prevention of such life causes were errors of diet, habit, over-stress or under-stress, bacterial infections and other poisons.

Passing over hereditary diseases, which he had mentioned were barred from being prevented by state laws, Sir James referred to cancer, the only really non-preventable short-life cause. "I venture to prophesy that, as surely as day follows night, the cause of cancer will be found," he said, "and when found, will be prevented in future."

Noted Actor Dead

Lon Chaney Succumbs To Pneumonia After Gallant Fight For Life In Los Angeles.—Lon Chaney, noted character actor of motion pictures, died here, August 26.

Lobar pneumonia, against which the veteran actor had fought a valiant battle for more than two weeks, caused his death. He was considered on the way to recovery, but a hemorrhage proved fatal.

Chaney was 47 years old. Born on April 1, 1885, in Colorado Springs, Colo., the son of deaf and dumb parents, Chaney quit school before he had reached the fifth grade to become a tourists' guide on Pike's Peak.

His introduction to the theatre was as a property boy. Later he became a stage hand, and to his death he carried a card in a stage hands' organization. He got his first "break" as a song and dance man at a stage hands' benefit when he was 16 years old.

CARLOAD CATALOGUES

EATON'S AND SIMPSON'S

If the merchants of St. Paul and the surrounding towns, would enlighten the buying public of this vast trading area of the quality, special features and prices of the goods they have to sell there would be less purchasing of goods and merchandise in Edmonton and much less from the mail order houses.

Nearly a car of catalogues were distributed here recently, soliciting the patronage of the residents for their fall and winter trade. Mr. Merchant what are you going to do to counteract this bid for the trade that rightfully belongs to you? These catalogues set forth their merchandise in clear form and every article plainly priced—this is advertising that brings results.

We are convinced that people send their money to mail order houses—not because they can always get better value—but more because it has become a habit. Now, we believe, good thoughtful advertising, with prices marked where they should be, would, in a short time keep much of this money circulating in our own district. Then we would hear no more of that wail—dull times and money scarce.

But what's the use of preaching to people soundly asleep behind their counters as it were?

We sent out a solicitor by way of a feeler for a renewal of subscriptions and actually some of the merchants refused to renew. Any merchant or business man worthy of the name who refuses to renew his subscription, his name should be published.

Unless you can convince the public that you can supply them with the best goods and groceries, and say so by advertising it, it is tantamount to saying that your goods are inferior and your prices higher. Is this town going to advertise itself without you? That is what it has been doing all summer with a few exceptions.

You have a retail merchants' association, but what is it good for and what is it doing to put over this town and the things you have to sell? Shall we have to name the personnel of this association so as to wake it up?

Your newspaper is what you make it. The people expect to see advertised goods. They read Eaton's catalogue and they should read your ad in this newspaper.—St. Paul Journal.

PRINTING SOLICITOR

AND THE OLD STORY

An itinerant printing solicitor operated in Kimberley last week soliciting advertising for a telephone card which he was to print with the merchant's name and telephone number. These cards were to be delivered to every telephone user in the city. We do not know how many "bit" on the proposition, but we do know the fellow has not been seen since making his collections and the merchants have not received their cards.

If merchants or anyone else wish any printing, the local newspaper with an investment of about $15,000 can do it—just as good or better, and no traveller can deliver printing to Kimberley as cheap, quality considered, as you can get it at home, and you take no chances. The next time you see one of these fellows remember what you've read.—Kimberley Press.

LETHBRIDGE'S GOLF

"HERO" ACCLAIMED:
WHO IS THE STAR?

The following item was clipped from a recent issue of the York-Post Evening Post by C. Metcalfe, manager of the Lethbridge tourist camp who is a regular subscriber to the newspaper:

325-yard Hole in One Strike

According to a British United Press Lethbridge (Alberta) message, a Mr. J. B. Wilson, playing in a match on the golf course there, made a 325-yard hole in one shot, which is believed to be the longest hole ever played in one shot.

Inquiries on Friday failed to reveal the identity of Mr. Wilson. He is certainly not a regular player at any of the local miniature golf courses, but if he would appear at either the "Wee MacGregor" or the "Mute Yout" and give some instruction on how to make a five-yard drive in one, the managers of the respective courses should be very grateful.

Anyone knowing the present whereabouts of the world title holder is requested to confide same to the sporting editor of this paper.—Lethbridge Herald.

By the looks of the heading, apparently the Herald is endeavoring to appropriate our thunder. The J. B. Wilson referred to above is none other than "Jock" Wilson, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank, who during the middle of July held out on the 9th in one stroke. The tee is placed on a hill about 100 feet above, while the green is at the clubhouse 325 yards away, and although numerous players have driven on the green and even over, Mr. Wilson has the honor of making the hole in one. We hasten to congratulate him on also attaining a record.

A WOULD-BE LEADER

Murphy, the Communist agitator, masquerading as an organizer, drifted into town last week just the same as any other wandering "vag," stuck up some hand written posters calling a meeting for Friday evening, and proceeded to do his best to earn a meal ticket. On Friday evening he harangued a crowd on the street corner, abusing all and sundry, collected about five dollars in small change, and departed.

Just size up this individual. Nobody knows where he came from, what trade he worked at, whether he has ever been a member of a labor union, or who employs him. He has never uttered a word of inspiration or given a constructive idea or suggestion on unemployment, simply told men in the mining towns what fine conditions exist in Soviet Russia. He has abused labor leaders, men who are worth more as citizens and who have done more for labor than Murphy or any like him can ever do.

When a tramp like this comes and abuses men like Gillespie, Hayson, Lees and others who have been in this community for twenty years or more, men who have established a reputation as loyal citizens, it is time that a renegade such as this is shown up publicly for what he is. How can men with any sense of stability take heed to the miserable whinnies of an irresponsible blatherer like such as he who would wreck everything and has nothing to build in its place?

If Murphy indulges in abuse, he will get the same dose handed back in full measure. Degrading it may be, but in dealing with creatures of this type, one cannot handle them except in the same manner as they attempt to handle others.—Coleman Journal.

A newspaper man is naturally modest and when some one assures him that, that last article was done just right, his only reaction is a fear that he must be getting hard of hearing. But within a block he is sure to meet another man who declares that he has been driven to tearing the rotten rag in a thousand pieces. Then the editor breathes freely. He knows his ears are still O.K.

Visitors to the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto witnessed an elaborate display of Canadian Industries, Limited, products. Ancient Greece furnished the architect with the motif for the building to house this display. It was in the form of a Grecian temple, 57 feet in length, 10 feet deep and 15 feet high. The entire display was decorated in polychrome effect, giving a stone appearance. The series of columns in front had bronze links swung from pillar to pillar; behind the pillars were long counters, tile covered, to hold the assorted displays. Salesmen were in constant attendance to answer enquiries in regard to the various products.

Ignorance and lack of culture is most marked on some individuals when they have too many drinks for their weak brains to stand. Then is when you see them in their true colors, no matter how much they may disguise themselves when sober. Fortifying a weak brain with "boozes," they become self-important, abusive and general nuisances. It is this type which make doubly necessary restrictive laws on the sale of intoxicants. Not being able to express their thoughts intelligently, they punctuate their conversation with filth and blasphemy, and in the hearing of women and children spew forth their filthy oaths and abominable remarks on the streets. The place to corral types of this nature is the hog pen. At that, the hogs would be better company than the "soaks" deserve.—Coleman Journal.

SHOULD USE CLUB RELIGIOUSLY

Peter Veregin, the Doukhobor leader, desired to hold a meeting in Grand Forks, B.C., the other day. When he arrived at the place of meeting, he found all his officials missing. Armed with a club he made a tour of the town and used the club vigorously upon a number of his followers. They took exception to this method of getting a crowd and took the case before the court. Mr. Veregin claimed he had a perfect right to adopt severe measures, but the magistrate held the opposite view and it cost the Doukhobor leader fifty dollars. The whole trouble arose over a dispute within the Doukhobor colony. If the courts did not stand in the way, Mr. Veregin's methods might be useful in many ways. In a civic election, for example, where only about a quarter of the qualified voters go to the polls, a diligent use of the club in the hands of candidates and their most active supporters might bring out a much larger vote. Perhaps, however, we may get along without the introduction of Russian methods.—Truro News.

We overheard a fish liar the other day telling of a dolly varden trout taken by him from Caribonde river, which measured ten inches in length and weighed nearly eight pounds. Local merchants are now hoping for a better market for Redfish.

"No," she snapped. "We sell them." "Well," he said, as he strolled toward the door, "you keep the one you were going to sell me. Good morning."

A beautiful and impressive Harvest Home service was held in the United church at seven thirty on Sunday last, when the children gave praise of the fullness of the harvest to Jehovah in song and verse, in a pleasing program which had been arranged by Mrs. Bundy and Rev. Mr. Crisp. Rev. Crisp took as his text, "The beauties of nature and the fullness thereof." Throughout his discourse he dealt fully and beautifully with the subject in hand. A sincere touch was added on this occasion when the church was tastefully decorated with vegetables, grains and autumn flowers.

4 Years without HEADACHE

How do you deal with headaches? Do you just take something to deaden the pain without getting rid of the trouble which causes the pain? Thousands do, despite the medical profession's warning cry of "DON'T!" Such makeshift methods simply suppress the symptoms of headaches. They merely numb the nerves and leave the underlying cause to look after itself. And it only obtains a flimsy grip. Headaches can generally be traced to a disordered stomach and to the unassisted retention in the system of stagnating waste material which poisons the blood. Remove these poisons—prevent them forming again—and you will never have any more. And that is just how Kruschen Salts bring swift and lasting relief from headaches. Kruschen Salts aid Nature to cleanse your body completely of all clogging waste matter.

"For many years I suffered from severe headaches almost daily. I started taking the small dose (Kruschen) a matter of four years ago, and I can honestly say I have never had a headache since."—Mrs. M. W.

To Curtail Dumping Of Soviet Coal

Matter Will Shortly Receive Consideration Of The Government

Steps to curtail the dumping of Soviet Russia coal in Canada will, it is understood, shortly, receive the consideration of the government. This coal, the alleged product to a considerable extent of convict labor, has been advertised for sale in Canada at the low rate of $5.50 per ton; and increasing quantities have been coming into the Dominion since 1928. Early action, as a means of reducing unemployment in the coal areas of Canada, is probable.

The course of the government would be in keeping with its proposal for a national fuel policy. Formulation of this policy will likely be based to a degree on a scientific research into certain phases of the problem.

Close to $1,125,000 in value of Russia Soviet coal was imported into Canada for the year ending July 31 last. Total imports for the year reached 305,370 tons.

For the four months ending in July alone, 104,741 tons were imported at a value of $563,363. In June imports of this commodity reached 32,068 tons, and in July the amount was 27,388 tons. April and May showed imports of 4,300 and 7,525 tons respectively. The four months period reviewed—1930 show an increase of 90,546 tons as compared with April, May, June and July of 1929.

Official records show that by far the great bulk of these shipments enter Canada via Montreal, with lesser cargoes passing through the ports of Saint John and Halifax. A comparatively small tonnage passes through the ports of Quebec and Sorel.

Protests against the entry of Soviet Russia coal were registered repeatedly in the House of Commons last session. The heads of these complaints was that the importation of the product deprived Canadian miners of employment especially during the off-seasons. In the recent general election campaign also the increasing quantities of this commodity arriving from Russia came under considerable criticism.

JOSEPH "A ROYAL REFORMER"

Golden Text: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and light unto my path."—Psalm 119:105.

Lesson: 2 Kings 22: 23-1-3, 21-25; 2 Chronicles 34 and 35.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 119: 9-16.

Explanations and Comments

The Character and Reign Of

Joseph, 22:1, 2—Joseph was the son of Amon and Jedidah. He became king of Judah when eight years of age, and it is that during his reign of thirty-one years he "wholly followed the Lord," pursuing righteousness as did David his ancestor, not deviating from it in any way.

"In Joseph's youthful training is probably to be found the explanation of his remarkable character and work," writes Professor Kent. "The conclusion that his youthful teacher was the prophet Zephaniah, whose sermons roused the nation as well as the young king. The stern, uncompromising spirit which characterized the prophet's reform sermon is reflected in the extreme measures adopted later by Josiah. Jeremiah must have been born during the closing years of Manasse's reign, and was therefore a contemporary of King Josiah and of the royal prophet Zephaniah. In the light of the narrative of the reforms, it is evident that Josiah was not a novice when he set alone in his efforts for reform. His father the priest was in full sympathy with the new movement. And Josiah had gathered about him a group of able officers who supported him in his reform measures."

The Finding Of The Book Of The Law, 22:3-8.—When twenty-six years of age Josiah turned his attention to the repairing of the ruined temple. Through Shaphan, the scribe, he directed Hilkiah, the priest, to take account of the money which the people had brought to the House of God and give it to the Levites appointed to receive it. The latter were to pay the men for their work on the temple. The overseers were Levites, and Josiah encouraged the workmen with music, and yet other Levites were scribes and officers and porters. The work progressed rapidly.

During this work upon the temple, Hilkiah found the book of the law of Jehovah. This book of the law was probably the legal portions (chapters 12 to 26 and chapter 28) of the Book of Deuteronomy (which calls itself "The Book of the Law," and also "The Book of the Covenant"). Josiah's reforms followed the directions laid down in this book.

The Effect Upon Josiah Of The Reading Of The Book Of The Law, 22:9-15.—After telling the king of the work upon the temple was progressing well, the money having been given to the overseers and the workmen put at work. Shaphan told him of the discovery of the book and read it aloud to him. The king rent his clothes in token of his troubled mind. "For," said he, "great is the wrath of Jehovah that is kindled against us, because our fathers have not hearkened unto the words of this book, to do according unto all that which is written concerning us." Read Chapters 12-16 of Deuteronomy, with Josiah in mind, and it will be easy to see why he was so greatly moved.

High School Correspondence Courses For Saskatchewan

Premier Anderson Implements Pledge To Extend Higher Educational Facilities To Rural Communities

Implementing his pledge to extend high school facilities to boys and girls in rural communities of Saskatchewan, Premier J. T. M. Anderson, as Minister of Education, has announced that, beginning in September, high school correspondence courses in Grades 9, 10 and 11 will be inaugurated by the Department of Education. These courses, while not intended to interfere in any way with existing school arrangements, are being instituted for the benefit of Saskatchewan boys and girls who have not reasonable opportunities of obtaining a high school education in their own districts.

Optional Subjects

The courses will provide full preparation of students for Junior Matriculation and Entrance to Normal Schools. In addition to all compulsory subjects of Grades IX, X and XI, the Department is offering many optional subjects such as Agriculture, Chemistry, Physics, Home Economics, Latin and French.

Pupils eligible for these courses must be residents of Saskatchewan and have Grade VIII or equivalent standing. The courses in Grades IX and X are offered to pupils who live outside an organized school district or who cannot attend school owing to some physical disability; to pupils who live within a school district but for some valid reason cannot attend school; to pupils who are in attendance at a one-term rural school, such pupils to work under the supervision of the local teacher who may refer questions to the Director in charge. The Grade XI course is restricted to pupils who live more than four miles from a school where Grade XI is being taught. A nominal fee will be charged for all the courses except those taken under supervision of the local teacher.

This new education activity in Saskatchewan is under charge of the

Imperial Army Pensioners

Colossal Sum Spent By Great Britain In Connection With War Of

Imperial army pensioners and their dependents in Canada receive each year between five and six millions of dollars from the home government, according to Sir George Chrysal, secretary of the British Ministry of Pensions, who is in Ottawa to visit the Canadian headquarters of the ministry.

Some idea of the colossal burden which the maintenance of the pensioners in connection with the post-war care of its veterans can be gauged, stated Sir George, by the fact that the sum of more than $4,500,000,000 has been spent in war pensions alone since the armistice. This sum exceeds the whole pre-war national debt of Great Britain. The present expenditure is approximately fifty-three million pounds a year or slightly over a million pounds a week.

There were in Canada and the United States about 12,000 war pensioners who were paid from Ottawa, while the total number in receipt of pensions at home and abroad, including dependents, was in excess of 1,250,000.

Ontario Welfare Institutions

Government Invited To Spend Huge Sums On Charitable Work

The province of Ontario is invited to spend between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 in the extension and improvement of its charitable and corrective institutions by the report which the royal commission on public welfare appointed last week, has submitted to the provincial government.

Steps are urged to secure legislation for the sterilization of criminal or moral defectives, science and statistics being quoted to show that much crime is traceable to heredity or mental deficiency. The jails of the province are found "inferior in nearly every sense of the word, crowded and without the desirable age and type of segregation."

"The general hospitals, it is submitted, 'should be a complete charge upon public funds, either provincial or municipal.'"

Another important recommendation concerns the establishment of a department of public welfare to strengthen government supervision of the social and corrective institutions and agencies. It is suggested the department might include a minister and his deputy and directors of mental hygiene, psychiatry and research work, child welfare, adult relief, handicapped children, adult corrective institutions, juvenile delinquents; a director of supplies and products and a director of inspection.

Another change in the present system favored by the commission is the placing of the supervision of hospitals and general physical health under the Department of Public Health, now existing instead of leaving them under control of the provincial secretary's department.

CHAPTER XXVIII

As those two in the doorway moved out of the mirror's line of reflection, Grandma lifted compassionate eyes to Jimmy Bennett. She could not speak. Her throat felt parched. Anything she might say would seem inadequate; so it was in silence Jim arose and moved dazedly toward the door that led to the room beyond.

"I'll get out the back way," he managed to say huskily. "You tell her that George K. sent for me. Tell her anything you're a mind to—except the truth. I'll be all right after a minute. . . . Don't worry. I'll be back."

But he was too late. Charman was back, her eyes still shining as she glanced in bewilderment from Grandma's troubled countenance to the grim face of her old playmate.

"Where are you going?" she began, puzzled. "Come back, Jim. Sit down. I've got some news for you. What makes you act so queer?" Then light broke in upon her and she cried: "Oh, look here! Did—did you see that idiot kiss me?"

Her cheeks flamed, but Jim still stood in the doorway. He might have been a statue. He didn't speak; but Grandma answered shakily, "In—In the mirror, dearie. I didn't know you cared that way—either of you. I thought . . ."

"I see," said Charman. She laughed, and going close to Jim, looked at him. "And you thought, too, Jim? Really, I don't know that I blame you. It must have looked that way. That kiss—"

"You don't have to explain a kiss like that, Charman," Jim broke in gruffly. "It spoke for itself. I wish you happiness, of course; but now, Uncle George is waiting for me, and . . ."

The girl drew an exasperated breath. "Let him wait," she responded. "You sha'n't go one step, Jim Bennett, till I've made you and Grandma understand this thing. Sit down! That kiss was—well, sort of a vicious kiss, you understand. It was a kiss by proxy, so to speak. It wasn't me John Carter was really kissing, but a girl who's crossing the ocean now to come to him—a girl he's adored for ages, though he was too proud to say so—nothing to offer her and—oh, you know that foolish line of thought."

"It's a long story, too long to go into now; but anyhow, he wrote to her after the old doctor died and he thought he'd be able to get married. His letter came back unopened. Then he found from a friend that she had gone abroad. He wrote in care of the American Express, and that letter came back, too. Then he tried Paris, and after following her all round Europe, the letter reached her in London, and she cabled. It was that message he brought for me to see. She sailed at once. Told him to meet her at the dock with a marriage license! Do you wonder the poor boy was a little off his head? He's been half crazy with anxiety, and—well," said Charman, a smile curving her lips, "he just naturally had to kiss some one, didn't he?" and I was handy."

"Handy!" echoed Jim Bennett, staring. "Are you trying to tell me that if he'd run into Lizzie Baker he'd have kissed her?"

"This bit of humor was a heroic effort on Jim's part to clear the atmosphere. In reality, it was difficult for him to speak. But his words were rewarded by a smile from Grandma and a dimple from Charman as she endeavored to reply sedately: "I'm not sure that he wouldn't have, though you know, Jim, I've been a—sister to him."

"I shouldn't hardly have thought it from the looks of things," said Grandma with unintentional humor. "At one time I was pretty sure we were going to keep him in the family. How long have you known about this girl, dearie? Why didn't you tell me?"

"If I'd known you were thinking what all the Wickfield busybodies were thinking," replied Charman, "I would have told; but it was a confidence, and I saw no reason to violate it. John is terribly close-mouthed about his own affairs, and he didn't know that the girl loved him. I think it was an immense relief to him to talk to me, though it's my private opinion that he'd never have done so if he hadn't suspected what Wickfield was saying about—us."

"Did he think you were maybe getting to love him?" asked Grandma innocently.

Charman flushed. "He's not so conceited as all that; but he was just right to let me know that his heart's in the highlands." He told me ages ago. In fact, he tried to tell me the day that Moore child ruptured her appendix, but we were interrupted, and a week or so went by before he had another chance. I suppose all Wickfield thinks that he broke my heart. Sometimes I wonder why he didn't. He's tremendously easy to love."

"Are you sure that useful organ is intact?" Jim questioned.

"Intact, but battered," confessed Charman. "Jim, where are you staying? You can put up here as well as not."

"But at Uncle George's—left the train at Eastboro and came over by automobile, just for the fun of surprising everybody. Aunt Salina nearly passed out when I walked in at dinner time. I told her I wouldn't be back till after supper, though it I hadn't hard enough I might worm an invitation out of somebody."

"You don't ever need to hint for an invitation here," said Grandma.

"You're welcome to invite yourself any time you want to. I've missed you like anything, Jimmy, and I presume Charman has, too, though maybe she's too bashful to let you think so."

"She means maidenly, Jim," laughed Charman, "and I fear I'm not even that. I've missed you awfully, and don't mind saying so to your face. But if you're to stay to supper you'll have to help to get it; and anyway, Grandma has talked enough for one while. You close your eyes, Grandma, and get a cat-nap while we're out of the room."

The young man arose with alacrity, and Grandma said: "You get something good and hearty. Charman, Jim's hungry after his long journey. Maybe he'd relish one of your nice omelets with bacon. And you'd better mix up some biscuits while you're about it."

"You're nothing if not hospitable, Grandma," smiled the guest, "but I refuse to be treated as company."

He stooped to take the old lady's hand in a gentle grip that said, "All's well after all," before he followed Charman to the kitchen.

"This looks like an ark," he commented, glancing about appreciatively. "I suppose I've become accustomed to kitchenettes; and in these days when most of us don't keep a lot of help, I'll admit that they save steps. Come here to the window, Charman. I want to look at you."

She smiled and answered: "Are you trying to detect gray hairs? I'm a wonder! I haven't got some, Jimmy." Her face clouded suddenly. "Did Uncle George tell you about

"About what?" he prodded as she hesitated.

Charman shivered. It had swept over her achingly that tomorrow she would be getting supper in a kitchen belonging to some stranger. She lifted her face, and Jim sensed the unshed tears behind her lashes.

"I've had to part with the old house, Jim. It was more than I could swing alone. I sign the papers tomorrow morning at the bank. Don't tell Grandma tonight. She knows it's coming, but not when. It's silly to care so much for a house, isn't it? And yet . . ."

She turned abruptly away, did something unnecessary to the stove, and came back with a smile on her lips that twisted Jimmy's heart.

"I'm sorry, Charman," he began, "but it's the—"

"Now don't you tell me it's sensible!" she cried, a sob in her voice. "Everybody tells me that—even Grandma. I know it's sensible, but—"

"I wasn't going to call it sensible," said Jim patiently. "I'm not even sure it is, when it hurts you so. I was going to say that it's the way life usually treats us—lets us set our hearts on something, and then, when it seems as if we couldn't live without it, it takes it away. Who's buying the old place, Charman?"

"I don't know even that—some stranger who took a fancy to the house and asked at the bank if it could be bought. Uncle George arranged it. And we'll still have the law office, Jim. We'll live there and—"

She explained their plans while Jim, staring out of the window toward the orchard, listened thoughtfully.

"It was the dear 'old doctor's' scheme," said Charman, "and once we get used to the change it will be all right. Now let's cheer up. It's hateful of me to thrust my burdens on you as soon as you arrive; and we must give Grandma a good time. She hasn't looked so happy for days and days, Jim. Forget my troubles now, and pare these apples. I'm going to make Dutch apple cake instead of biscuits because you like it. Wait till I tie this apron round you, please. That's a dandy suit, and you mustn't get it spotted the first thing!"

Jim's familiar smile came back as she tied him into the blue apron. He said: "I'm glad the suit has made a hit. Mother thought I'd taken leave of my senses when she came across the hill in a coat pocket. I told her that considering the wealth she was squandering on a fruit ranch, she couldn't consistently complain of my extravagance. Then Aunt Sophie came in and took my side. Aunt Sophie's a peach. She's like my mother—well, with all the angles and paped. Do you catch my meaning? You'd love her, anyway. It was worth being exiled all this time to find an aunt like that, believe me."

"Was that all you found in California?" queried Charman as she measured flour into a blue bowl. She was remembering the "girl" mentioned in Lizzie Baker's letter, but Jim answered in all seriousness:

Body Of Andree Is Found

Remains Of Famous Swedish Explorer Discovered After 39 Years

Out of the Arctic silence has come the grim last chapter of aviation's first North Pole argus, solving after 39 years the mystery of how Salomon August Andree, Swedish balloonist-explorer, who set out in an airship, in 1897, for the top of the world, perished with his two companions.

A Norwegian scientific expedition, headed by Dr. S. Horn, has sent word to Oslo that its members had found the bodies of Andree and his mates in a camp of their making, on White Island, which lies east of the Spitzbergen group.

No trace of Andree's balloon had been found.

Andree's diary, his scientific instruments, a few scattered objects which evidently had been muzzled by bears but left untouched, and the bodies of the explorers told the gruesome tale of a battle with the elements in which the tall, blonde aeronaut had survived his fellows.

Andree was accompanied on his trip by K. Frankel and N. Strindberg, the latter then a handsome youth of 24, professor at a Swedish university, engaged to be married but putting off his wedding until he might return from this one last adventurous fling before settling down. Despatched reaching Oslo did not readily identify the man whose body was found near that of Andree, and described as well preserved.

Andree made his great Polar attempt from Danes Island, Spitzbergen, July 11, 1897. In the previous year he had failed. He had launched the idea in 1895, thirty-one years before the epochal voyage of Amundsen and the "Norge" across the Pole, accomplished Andree's ideal.

Upon a desolate tabland, at the base of a high cliff some 500 feet inland, the Norse explorers came upon the camp of death on August 6. Today a Norwegian sealer, according to advice from the Høra party, was reading in the bodies and other objects of the explorers to Norway.

Fast British Trains

Cheltenham Flyer Attains Speed Of 80 Miles An Hour

When I travel from Brighton to London at night, I see nearly always at Victoria Station a few young passengers admiring the huge and handsome engine of the King Arthur class which has drawn the train. Big engines and famous trains still have an invincible attraction for youth—as you may learn at almost any station in the land. The train is by the summer time-tables, are the fastest in the world. The fastest of all is the "Cheltenham Flyer," which is timed to do the 77 miles from Swindon to London at 66 miles an hour, but actually covers the distance on many days at a speed of 80 miles an hour.

Nearly a century ago, Brunel, in this matter of speed was far ahead of his time. He thought 60 miles a rate to aim at, though there were quite a number of his contemporaries who seriously favored the imposition of a speed limit of 15 to 20 miles, for "the safety of passengers."—London Daily Mail.

Wingless Aircraft

Successful Flight Of Latest Addition To Aircraft Is Reported

The New York Times says a wingless aircraft based on the principles of the celebrated Flettner rotor ship, has been built and successfully flown on Long Island Sound, off Mamaroneck, with the backing of New York capitalists.

The aircraft is described as similar in appearance to a seaplane without wings. A single motor in the nose supplies the traction through a three-bladed steel propeller. An auxiliary air-cooled gypro motor supplies power to rotate the cylinders which take the place of wings.

Three rotors are in four sections, two on each side of the centre longitudinal line of the craft. Forward is an out-rigger rudder and behind is a small pair of tandem cockpits. Between the motor and the cockpits two long booms are used in place of the usual four long-arms.
